THRONE IS NOW THE DEAD PRELATE'S BIER.

"LAID HIM IN A SEPULCHRE."

VOL. 47, NO. 214.

A Loving People's Final Tribute to Peter Richard Kenrick.

ARCHBISHOP RYAN'S SERMON

The Cathedral Would Not Contain the Vast Crowd Assembled to Do Henor to the Dead.

With the tolling of church bells, sad strains of sacred harmony, the chant of absolving prayers, eloquent eulogy and all the magnificent ritualistic pomp of the Mother of Churches, the obsequies of the great Archbishop of St. Louis were carried out in the old Cathedral Wednesday morning. A rarer scene, more mediaeval in some respects, more unworldly in others, has not been witnessed since the cold, clear December morning four years ago, when, in the same place, the same man was again the central figure of a magnificent ceremo-

Then indeed it was a glorious event, the celebration of half a century's service as a prince of the Roman Church. Wednesday the central figure in that great event was cold in death.

Bishops and priests that came then to re-joice and congratulate had returned to pay their last tribute of respect at his bier.

The one scene was typical of the fullness of life. It was the culmination of Peter Richard Kenrick's fame as a prelate. The other was typical of the spiritual, the un-worldly view that realizes the grandeur of death after a life well spent.

This man, who made nothing of friendship during his life, who overlooked the arts that make men great and pleasing in the public eyes, was buried by his church with greater mp and sincerer eulogy than a prince of the royal blood.

Rome has often been called the mother of all the arts. Truly when one gets back to the older and more unaccustomed modes of her elaborate ribual one finds how deeply in touch she was with all that could inspire and uplift the soul.

Music, painting, architecture, the things eal to the eye and the ear, sym bolism, the imagination's master, are the oundwork of her ceremonial.

It is no wonder then that when people are brought face to face with an elaboration of this ancient ritual they should feel transported from the workaday world back into scenes and days when the thoughts of the spirit world were not crowded down by the matter-of-fact detail of everyday ex-

And it was just such an experience that came to those fortunate enough to gain adat the Cathedral.

From the beginning of the service to the closing scene there was presented a panorama unlike anything ever enacted in rea It was as though the characters in some mediaeval fresco had stepped down from the painted walls and grouped themselves in kaleidoscopic tableaux like crea-tures of flesh and blood.

The Cathedral was just the locality for such a scene. Its old French-Spanish archi-tecture is a reminiscence of other days. Within are broad aisles, massive pillars, a sanctuary that projects into the body of the church until it almost falls within the shadow of the organ loft.

In the deep recesses of the sanctuary wer crowded to-day row upon row of priests. In every direction as far as the eye could pene trate; everywhere, on every side in the shadow of the lofty arches, shot by the occasional lancing sunlight through the Mu-nich glass were surpliced clergymen.

Immediately before the main altar was double row of high dignituries of the church in purple robes, relieved only by the gleam of the golden pectoral cross.

At either end of the semi-circle formed by this dignified body were the canopied thrones. One occupied by the Cardinal in his robes of scarlet, the other by Archbishop Kain in the sombre vestments of the celebrant of the funeral mass. Around them were the assistant priests, the acolytes and masters of ceremonies.

Without the sanctuary rail were again rows upon rows of priests, filling every bit of vacant space between the chancel and the congregation.

Just on the edge of this imposing circle lay the dead Archbishop on his sombre catafalque. The frail, wasted body in its gorg-eous robes looked like an ancient saint and gave the final touch to the weird, unworldly

There has been nothing like it for American eyes in many days, and those who were present will long remember the quaint antiphonal chants, rising from the throats of 500 priests, the minor modulations of the organ, the inspiring strains of solo pas-sages in mediaeval hymns like the "Dies Irae." the solemn intonations of the cele-brant and behind ever rising clouds of sweet pings of the Cardinal and his attendant.

To view this spectacle was gathered an audience that included the Catholic population of St. Louis from the richest to the poopest. Not a tithe of those who craved admission could gain entrance and without the church a mob half reverent, half curious, surged up against the gates of the Cathodral and were swept back again by the police.

The building was in semi-twilight. The massive pillars were swathed in black from base to capstone. Black streamers hung over the windows, and what sunlight strug-gled through the stained glass was deadened by the somber draperies,

The altar was stripped of every orname and the cold marble was covered with purple bands. Only the six altar lights and the two candles on the epistle and gospel sides illuminated the sanctuary. On the alter table rested the mass book and the robes of the episcopal celebrant.

There was only one spot of light in the church and that was at the foot of the sanctuary rail in the center aisle, where two elabra shed their light over the bier of

There was no change in the placid feet ures of the dead man, so quiet, so peaceful in death that those who looked upon his face wondered that he could have chosen and lived up to as his episcopal motto, "Noti

Six members of the St. Louis University cadets stood guard at either side of the coffin, and at the foot Tom Franklin, the dead Archbishop's faithful valet, knelt and wept throughout the service,

The seating of the congregation was skill-fully accomplished by the gentlemen of the St. Vincent de Paul Society. All crowding was prevented and the slightest suspicion of an unpleasant incident avoised. Seats had been reserved within the sanctuary and in the space without between the chancel and the pews. In front of the altar were four rows of "prie deux" reserved for the archbishops, bishops and titled churchmen. In the body of the church honorary pallbearers Frs. Connolly, McDonald, Lorenz, Ruesse, Hoffman, Dempacy, Schroeder and Schea were seated in the first pews.

Promptly at 9 o'clock the Rev. Gerald Powers, assisted by Revs. Max Schneiderhahn, Aloys Gartenhoefer and A. Vassal, deacons from Kenrick Theological Seminary, began chanting the office of the dead. They were answered antiphonally by a choir of students from Kenrick Theological Seminary and the assembled clergy. After the chanting of the collects, the entire congregation of clergymen recited the office of the dead.

Archbishop Kain entered the sanctuary during the recitation of the office. He was followed at ten minutes to 10 o'clock by Cardinal Gibbons.

With the entry of the Cardinal, the head

Tyler Senator Blackburn was and counselling coolness.

The crowd was mad when it found that James had slipped into the House, and had done so while they were unseating him in the Senate. Chief of Police Tobin and several officers were in the crowd. Men and women by the hundred rushed from the building and the square when the yells told that the unseating in the Senate had been done, and the mob began gathering at the House door.

The police said nothing except that they are here by the order of the Chief. Register of the Land Office Reynolds forced his way through the crowd. Men like Chinn kept their hands on their weapons all the time. At noon all the Senators were in the House except Walton, who did not try to go. The Republicans were begging Walton to brave the gauntet of knives and guns and angry purposes, but he would not leave the Senate chamber.

At 2:20 p. m. Duniap approached the door, but was waved back. He did not ask to get in, and had not taken the oath of office.

17:20.—Blanford is still refusing to recognize the Senate, hoping in vain that Duniap will come. Mr. Bronston is demanding the election of a presiding officer. Every man in the House is on his feet and wild with excitement. Blanford is yelling at Bronston.

12:21.—Léqutenant Governor Worthington. followed at ten minutes to 10 o'clock by Cardinal Gibbons.

With the entry of the Cardinal, the head of the Church in America. the sanctuary received the last touch of color that at once transformed the scene from a sombre spectacle to a magnificent ceremonial.

The Cardinal's entrance was preceded by a train of clergymen and acolytes. First came the four clerical ushers, then a train of acolytes, the attendants of honor, Revs. James McCaffrey and Joseph Etten S. J., then the Cardinal in his scarlet robes of state. He is small of stature, bent like a student, stall in body and has ascetic features. But back of the clerical mask is the alert look of a man of affairs.

Behind the Cardinal walked his page, Louis J. Wiegle, in a knickerbocker costume of scarlet satin, edged with white lace and a full suit of flaxen curls beneath his scarlet cap.

The costume of the Prince of the Church and his attendant were the only touch of color among the sembre purple and black of mourning and gave a mediaeval touch to the unaccustomed scene.

After making obesiance before the tabernacie the Cardinal retired to his throne on the gospel side of the altar and was seated between his attendants. The quaintly attired page seated himself at the Cardinal's feet on the steps of the dais.

shortly after the Cardinal's arrival the office drew to a close. Archrishop Kain intoning the closing responses. Then the choir and chanters raised their voices and began the pealm. "Ecce Quam Bonum." The clergy in the sanctuary joined in and the nave rang and throbbed with the grand and stately melody of Gregorian measure. For the first time the congregation felt the thrilling effect of the Roman ritual, that calls on all the arts to aid in its magnificent ceremonial.

At the close of the effice for the dead Archbishop Kain was vested for the celebration of mass. As he stood on his raised throne, the assistant priests brough him in order, the alb, cincture, maniple, stole and finally the chasuble. Lastly he put on the mitre, its gold embroidered and seweled face draped with a white pall.

He advanced to the foot of the altar. Beside him were his assistants, Rev. Wm. Wm. Walsh. Rev. Joseph Goller, deacon, and Rev. James Fenlon, subdeacon. He recited the infroit while the rolling tones of the requism poured in great volume from the requism poured in great volume from the requism poured in great volume from the choir of priests and students in the galley.

ARCHBISHOP BYAN'S SERMON. A Touching Tribute to the Memory of His Sainted Friend.

Most Eminent Cardinal, Venerable Brothers of the Episcopate and Clergy, and Dear Brethren of the Laity: "Weeping, she hath wept in the night, and her tears are on her wept in the night, and her tears are on her cheeks. Her priests sigh, her visgins are in affiliction, and she is oppressed with bitterness." (Geremiah 10, 2d and 5th 1s. These words of the sorrowing prophet of Israel, Jeremiah, seem to describe the scene before us. This archdiscese, until lately the spouse of its great Archbishop, weeps by his bier. Here she has wept, day and pight, as her children kept loving watch over him. Her priests, who were witnesses of his devotedness and self-sacrifice, sigh in sorrow as they behold him for the last time. Her consecrated virgins in all the convents, schools and asylums are in affliction, and up from their pure hearts well the waters of sorrow for the loss of their father.

We have seen and the state of the state of the flower the golden could keep erevated ing longer the golden challes in holy sacrifice to God. Oh, how can I speak in eloquence equal to, that of this silend scene. Around fils coffin are grouped the associations and the silections of half a century. You the aged, are here, you who saw him in the vigor of his young manhood grasping the staff of authority and proclaiming with eloquence and power the great ruths of Christianity. Then, you bishops and priests, who have come from afar to do honor to his memory, you represent the great American church on this most impressive occasion; and you chiefly, most eminent cardinal, who paid to the venerable prelate the highest tribute of admiration, and unconsciously, revealed the deep humility of your own heart when you said "That sooner than allow the great prelate of St. Louis to exhibit any mark of inferiority to you by kiesing your ring and receiving your blessing, as he was stated to have done, you would have fallen down before him and kissed his feet,"—you are here to represent, not only the American church, but he Supreme Poniff himself.

How can I hope to adequately voice the sornew and the veneration of this great soon. Of all who meurn around his coffin there is perhaps no one who has greater reason for sorrow than I have—no deeper debot to his paternal care and friendship, were I to consult my own feelings alone, I should prefer to say with the psalmist, "I was afflicted and I kept in silence." But I could not decline the melanchyly office of laying on this coffin my tribuits to my best friend and tenderest father.

When, more than four years so, on the occasion of the golden subjue of the gate of the sanctuary of his harpy life, the which, chiefly, the value of external and bearva

This union, in his case, seemed almost perpetual. Every spiritual exercise of the day strengthened and intensified it.

The police on the steps and at the door had been swept aside, powerless against the mighty sea.

Women were being knocked down in imminent danger of death under the thousands of feet.

With one long sullen roar the crowd pushed irresistibly toward the objective point. It came from three sides, and after the fall of the iron fence on the east, struggled and fought and went mad in the effort to get within the building.

From a station on the stone steps Capt. O'Mailey saw two women fall in the midst of the crowd.

Calling three men to follow him, he fought his way against the torrent as a swimmer-fights the billows of the sea. He and his followers reached the women just in time to save them from being crushed.

The shrieks of women and the shouts of men accompanied the onslaught of humanity, and reached those already within in muffied cadence.

For half an hour the struggle lasted. Toward the end the police succeeded in restoring a gemblance of order and when at 9:15 o'clock the doors were again closed, those shut out accepted their disappointment and became quiet. The iron gates were dgain locked and two policemen stationed at the gap in the fence.

were sgain locked and two policemen, stationed at the gap in the fence.

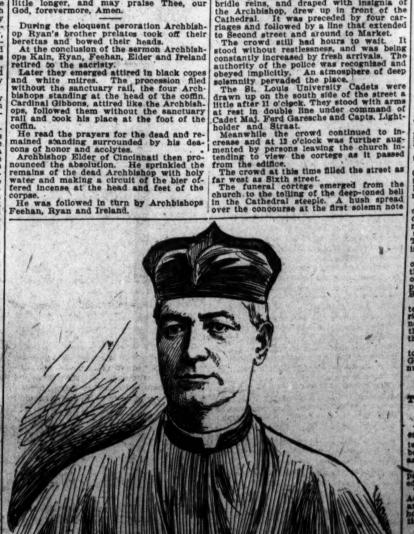

Under pressure of forty policemen, the people gradually drew back to the opposite side of the street and to either side of the entrance. A passageway in the street was finally cleared, leaving an open space of some fifty feet between the crowd and the Cathedral wall.

Policemen, under Sergt. King, were stationed in front of the crowd, ten feet apart, forming a blue-coated wall beyond which it was impossible to pass. The crowd stoed thus immovable in the biting wind and occasional sleet, patient and good-natured.

At 10 o'clock a woman was borne through the crowd from the church. She had fainted in the oppressive atmosphere of the Cathedral.

At 10:30 o'clock the hearse, drawn by four purple-plumed horses, guided by purple bridle reins, and draped with insignia of the Archbishop, drew up in front of the Cathedral. It was preceded by four carriages and followed by a line that extended to Second street and around to Market.

The crowd still had hours to wait. It stood without restlessness, and was being constantly increased by fresh arrivals. The authority of the police was recognised and JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., March 11.-The last General Assembly appropriated $550,000 for the pay of criminal costs; $50,000 of this amount was for a deficiency carried over from 1894, but of the $500,000 appropriated for the years 1895-5 there remains to-day in the Treasury of the State only $300. All the rest has been expended and a conservative estimate is that there will be a deficiency of at least $250,000 for the next General Assembly to meet. This will have to be carried by the various sheriffs, Circuit Clerks, Clerks of Criminal Courts and special judges in the State. They will have to wait for their fees until the next Legislature appropriates money for that purpose, which will be about April 1 next, nearly thinteen months off. There are now criminal costs bills in the office of State Auditor Jas. M. Seibert amounting to $16,554 and only the $500 balance mentioned in the fund. It invariably is the case that there is a deficiency in this fund owning to the short-sightedness of the law-makers in not setting aside sufficient money for it.

She died soon after.

At the Coroner's inquest bruises were found on her body. She was burned only on her back and hips and the tips of her fingers, showing that she had been held across a burning log and that her fingers had been burned in her desperate effort to save herself from the fire. The first bill introduced in this Congress was one by Mr. Linton of Michigan to reorganize this branch of the service and the committee has directed Mr. Linton to report the bill favorably. By its provisions the number of classes in the service on a salany basis is increased from five to ten, and salarles of clerks range from 3000 to 11,500.

Increased Anxiety for the Safety of the Missing Rio de Janeiro.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., March 11.—As time passes and no news is received from the missing China steamer Rio de Janeiro, alarm for the safety of the big Pacific Mail liner increases. The agents of the company continue to give out assurances that the vessel is all right, but the friends of the passengers and crew are not so confident. The offices of the company are daily besieged by crowds awaiting some tidings of the missing ship, but so far their vigilance has been unrewarded. Increased anxiety is also manifested in marine insurance circles, and it is said that the agents of many companies which took risks on the ship have been instructed to unload a good portion of the insurance if possible.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., March 11.—As time passes and no news is received from the City Treasury tifrough a clever scheme concocted by three tax sharks, a clerk in the Comptroller's office and another in the special assessment bureau. The steal was accomplished by forging special assessment tax receipts. It is another grab at the special assessment fund, and, while it is not known just how much money has been obtained, it is possible that $20,000 or $25,000 stepped out of the people's vaults before the conspirators were detected. In vestigation has already developed that they obtained at least $4,000.

KERP AN EYE ON PORAKER.

Ohio Republican Convention, the retions adopted, and the hectic enghus evoked by every mention of McKin name during the proceedings, serv show that the universal suspicion reging the good faith of Ohio politic in their dealings with one another aroused some of them at least to need of self-vindication. Foraker in ticular, who has absolute control of Republican State machine, shows a Republican State machine, shows sciousness of the fact that he must make a fair show of loyalty to McKinley if he is to have any influence in the Louis convention.

His speech as chairman must be inte preted in the light of his own consc ness that he is under suspicion. If Faker's record in the past had not be that of a more than ordinarily reckles and slippery politician, this speech would suffice. No fault can be found with it on the ground that it lacks either earnest-ness or explicitness. The man who made it will find it extremely difficult to accept a nomination himself or to furthe the nomination of any other Presidential candidate than McKinley.

But no one knows better than Foraker that in politics fair words butter no parenips! Garfield spoke for Sherman, voted for Sherman and supposed that he had covered effectively his tracks in the path leading to his own nomination. Yet Sherman failed and Garfield, his spokesman, carried off the prize. The proof that his loyalty to Sherman was merely lip loyalty seems complete, especially since the publication of Sherman's book. This late exposure of Gar-field's perfidy may deter Foraker from attempting the Garfield role at St. Louis. Nevertheless, Mr. Hanna and the other Ohio delegates who honestly favor Mc Kinley will do well to keep both eyes fixed upon Foraker from the time the delegation starts for St. Louis until the nomination is made.

THE BARNACLED SENATE.

The United States Senate has a bette claim on the title of millionaire club millionaires with a taste for political honors. The establishment is run on a millionaire basis.

Senator Chandler has been looking nto the Senate expenditures and has discovered extravagance that will astonish the plain people who pay the bills of the Government. He has found that there are 353 employes to supply the wants of ninety Senators, a fraction less than four employes to the Senator. In addition to a Secretary for each Senator there are 31 clerks, 57 messengers, 52 entire inside of Carlisle's action in awarding laborers, 23 pages, 18 folders, 15 policemen, 7 mail carriers, 8 watchmen and other help. The amount of money necessary to run this magnificently equipped club is appalling to simple folk. Although the salaries and mileage of the Senators amount to only $480,000, the salaries of the employes amount to $482,000 and the "In-identals" to $165,000 more. But the most astonishing feature of this extravagance is its extraordinary growth, Within nine years the pay rol has increased $175,000. There were half a dozen bids to select from. When opened it was found that Richard P. McClure's was lowest. The exact amount of his bid was not given out, but it is said to be something less than $55,000. Besides this $7,000 or $5,000 will be spent for decorations.

The contract has not yet been signed. It is expected that the committee will hold a meeting this afternoon, when, if Mr. McClure is prepared to furnish acceptable bond for the faithful construction of the building, in accordance with the specifications, and within the time indicated, the contract will be let.

The plans and specifications as prepared by Architect Isaac S. flaylor call for the completion of the building by June I. The auditorium will be the largest building that has ever been erected specially for a national convention. It will have a frontage of $22 feet on Clark avenue and $22 feet on $22 feet on Clark avenue and $22 feet on Twelfth street. A DECISION REVERSED. The Case Involves Responsibility for

They noe his death, five years ago, and, by a all harp on the same string—Dennis coming since his death, five years ago, and, by a decision rendered by the St. Louis Court of Appeals Tuesday, is apt to be bandled about by lawyers' tongues for an indefinite period. "Mark Twain" in this case is not the famous humorist, but a horse named after him.

This Mark Twain was the property of Fr. E. A. Casey, a Catholic priest at Montgomery City, Mo. In April. 1891. Casey went to Europe, and during his absence he intrusted the horse to J. T. Donovan, the well-known real estate man of St. Louis, who at that time owned a large treeding and racing

McDonnell did not approve. He secured a revolver and a club and went to the store. After he had thrown his step-children out, he decided to go into the business himself. He commenced operations on the cash register to see how much he was winner.

He forgot that when he threw the real owners out of the store he locked the door and he waiged in vain for customers.

Then he concluded a bargain sale was the proper thing and he took a fall out of the contents of the store in order that he could have a real damage sale. Then the police but in an appearance and Nr. McDonnell, will display his business abilities at the Work-house.

Sixth street, mother of Carrie Reed, has invoked the aid of the supernatural to get her daughter out of trouble.

Mrs. Bibbs' Ethiopian mentality is permeated with all the superstitious beliefs of her race, and voodoo influence is her specialty.

At 9 o'clock Wednesday morning, just before the opening of the Court of Criminal Correction, Mrs. Bibbs glided up the iron stairway at the Four Courts, and stealing sliently through the hall on the second floor she dropped a voodoo bag in front of Judge Murphy's courtroom, where Carrie is to be placed on trial for assault to kill.

It was a little square bag, half an inch deep, stuffed full of snake's ears and other uncanny articles, and supposed to wield an influence for good in behalf of the accused.

A reporter was watching the old woman when she dropped the bag, and quickly picked it up and handed it back to her.

"Lawd, Gawd, man! What is dat?" she exclaimed, feigning iptense surprise.

The old woman stoutly maintained for a time that she had never seen the bag before, but finally admitted that she had-obtained it from a voodoo doctor to use in her daughter's case.

President C. C. Maffitt was asked Tuesday as to the length of the racing and in reply he said: "Gur stakes will enable us to conduct a season of high-classed racing up to July 4. During that period we offer sufficient inducement to attract the best horses in América and if the public desire a further season of the sport, arrangements will be made to keep the good horses here. The racing will not be permitted to degenerate and the horsemen will be forced to co-operate with the association. It is to their interest as well as the association. Our directors have made up their minds to conduct a clean meeting and the track will be slosed if it can't have one."

J. J. Burke is mentioned for Judge Carter's position while the latter is filling his engagement at Latonia. Burke is disangaged and will be glad to get the position at the Fair Grounds.

FORTUNES

The importance attained by cycling in the last few years is shown by the plan of the Northwestern Breeders' Association of Chicago to give $5.000 next Fourth of July for some sort of bicycling events. If a sanction can be obtained from the L. A. W. the association will end its annual Washington Park meeting with the biggest bicycle race meeting on the Fourth of July that has ever been seen in the West. If a sanction cannot be secured the money will be expended, in getting up a bloycle carnival with liberal prizes and be competed for by clubs and drill companies from the bicycle clubs. One plan under consideration is the offering of a $1,000 prize for the club that makes the best appearance in a ride around the track. utilizes her Russian hound will have little need for any other escort.

The howling hayseed hybrid, who seems to have no other excuse for being on earth but to run after and annoy feminine wheel riders, will cease to be the terror of otherwise quiet and pleasant country roads after just one attempt to amuse himself at the expense of a lady accompanied by one of these hounds. The farmer dog may imagine that the long, slender form leaping along in graceful strides by the side of his flying mistress, may, like the average greyhound, tuck his tail between his nether limbs and scurry away with frightened yelps. The Russian wolf hounds which will be exintroduce to St. Louisans a dog of which very little is known in the West. This

But the chances are he will be surprised in an expeditious and disagreeable manner. Nor will his discomfiture cease when he beats a hasty retreat, for true to the wolf hunting training of a long line of ancestors the Russian hound's long suit is nipping his hindquarters in a hot pursuit. The rural cur, even if he is ever afterwards able, does not care for these vivid representations of the biter bit, and is henceforth, from a bicycle rider's st. ndpoint, "cured." This one trait is enough to make the Russian hound meet with a hearty welcome, but he has others.

It is not that we love Caesar less, but Rome more." (Great applause.)

In conclusion he said: "Under his (McKinley's) administration there will be no more deficits, no more bond issues in times of peace, no more bond issues in times of the national currency, no more higgling about pensions for the men who saved this Union (cheers and applause) and no hesitation whatever, such as we now see in the White House, in demanding and securing for the United States her rightful place and consideration among the nations of the earth. "I want my speech here to-day to be short enough for everybody to read and plain enough for everybody to understand. (Tremendous applause and cries of "You're all right.") I have sounded, gentlemen of the convention, the keynote of this occasion. I thank you." (Applause.)

The Grand Opera-house was unable to-day to give admission to more than half of those holding tickets and wearing badges with McKinley's picture thereon, and some of the delegates to the convention were crowded out. With a heavy snow falling, standing room was not as desirable as yesterday, and there was much complaint about the capacity of the hall.

It was 10:15 when Senator-elect Foraker called the convention to order. At that time the stage was crowded with Ohio Congressmen and other party leaders. Ex-Secretary Charles Foster had a seat near the presiding officer. After prayer by Rev. Mr. Lawrence the Committee on Credentials reported in favor of seating "The Committee Delegation." from Muskingum as against "The Mass Convention Delegation." The report was adopted with a resolution against County Committees assuming the power in the temporary organization of the convention was unanimously made the personal of the convention was unanimously made the personal properties.

The temporary organization of the convention was unanimously made the permanent organization, when Chairman Formaker briefly acknowledged the double honor and proceeded to business. The report of the Committee on Rules and Order of Business changed some precedents in the order of momitations and discussion was precipitated or. an amendment to have the nomination for Food and Dairy Commissioner come last on the list. The amendment was lost, and the report adopted.

Congressman J. M. Taylor, Chairman of the Committee on Resolutions reported the following platform, which, was greeted with frequent appleuse and adopted:

The Republicans of Ohio congratulate the people of the country upon the growth of Republican sentiment, as evidenced by the signal victories of the last three years.

Republican sentiment, as evidenced by the signal victories of the last three years, which assure a glorious national triumph in the coming election.

We dendunce the Democratic Administration as the most destructive and disastrous the history of our county has ever known. It has not only disappointed the expectations of the country, but has justly forfeited the confidence and support of its own certify.

We affirm our adherence to the principles

IS IT A TRIFLE?

THAT COMMON TROUBLE, ACID DYS-PEPSIA OR SOUR STOMACH.

Now Recognized as a Cause of Serious Disease.

Acid dyspepsia, commonly called heartburn or sour stomach, is a form of indiges-tion resulting from fermentation of the food. The stomach being too weak to promptly digest it, the food remains until fermentation begins, filling the stomach with gas, and a bitter, sour, burning faste in the mouth is often present. This condition soon becomes chronic and being an every day occurrence is given but little attention. Because dyspepsia is not immediately fatal, many people do nothing for the trouble.

It is now well known among able physicians that the whole constitution is gradually undermined and weakened, that the nerves and vital organs are seriously affected by any form of dyspepsia. every organ, every nerve in the body is nourished by the blood and the blood is re-plenished from the food digested. If the food is properly digested the blood is pure, the nerves steady, but if supplied from a sour, fermenting, decaying mass, the blood is vitiated, poisoned and the result is shown is vitiated, poisoned and the result is shown in sleeplessness, lack of energy, poor appetite, nervousness. Every trifle is magnified and the dyspeptic sees nothing but the dark side of everything.

Within a recent period a remedy has been discovered prepared solely to cure dyspepsia and stomach troubles. It is known as Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets and it is now becoming rapidly used and prescribed as a radical cure for every form of dyspepsia.

It is not claimed to cure anything except.

it is not claimed to cure anything except yspepsla and stomach weakness in its arious forms, but for this it has been shown various forms, but for this it has been shown to be unequaled. The eminent specialists, Reed and O'Leafy, have recently stated that they consider Stuary's Dyspepsia Tablets an unfalling specific for disorders of the digestive organs, and the remarkable cures made in cases of long standing dyspepsia proves that this remedy has extraordinary merit.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets have been placed before the public and are sold by druggists everywhere at 50 cents pet package. It is prepared by the Stuart Chemical Co., Marshall, Mich., and while it prohiptly and effectually restores a vigorous digestion, at the same time is perfectly harmless and

'e denounce the present tariff law as the limated product of Democratis ignorance incompetency, bringing, as it has, to a sperous and happy people, a period of unpedented adversity and distress from the nothing but a return to the policy of ection can relieve it.

'e denounce the free wool provision of present tariff law as an unjust discrimion against an important industry and not a large part of our people and ded such protection for sheep husbandry will secure fair prices for American as will secure fair prices for American wool.

The Republican party stands for a reciprocity that reciprocates and which does not yield up to another country a single day's labor that belongs to the American workingman. It stands for international agreements, which get as much as they give, upon terms of mutual advantage.

It stands for a foreign policy dictated by and imbued with a spirit that is genuinely. American; for a policy that will revive the national traditions and restore the national spirit which carried us proudly through the earlier years of the century. It stands for sich a policy with all foreign nations as will insure both to us and to them justice, good faith, dignity and honor. It stands for the Monroe doctrine as Monroe himself proclaimed it.

and that will protect that flag wherever it floats.

It stands for a fiscal policy opposed to debts and deficits in time of peace and favors the return of the Government to a debt-paying policy and opposes the continuance of the debt-making policy. It is too plain for argument that the public credit and commercial interests of the country require the revenues of the Government to be amply sufficient for the public expenditures at all times without danger or deficit, and to that end Congress should without delay make due provision.

We contend for honest money; for a currency of gold, silver and paper with which to measure our exchange that shall be as sound as the Government and as untarnished as its honor, and to that end we favor bimetailism, and demand the use of both gold and silver as standard money, either in accordance with a ratio to be fixed by an international agreement, if that can be obtained, or under such resirictions and such bimetallism, and demand the use of both sold and silver as standard money, either in accordance with a ratio to be fixed by an international agreement, if that can be obtained, or under such restrictions and such provisions, to be determined by legislation, as will secure the maintenance of the parities of the values of the two metals, so that the purchasing and debt paying power of the dollar, whether of silver, gold or paper, shall be at all times equal.

We denounce the present administration of the Pension Bureau for its betrayal of the interests of the Union soliders and we pledge anew to the veterans of the Republic a watchful care and recognition of their just claims upon a grateful people. The people have triumphantly elected Gen. Bushnell to the Governorship; the General Assembly have emphatically indorsed the people's choice for United States Senator, Gov. Foraker, and we congratulate the Republicans of Ohio that to-day has completed the fulfillment of all the pledges made by their last convention.

We honor the eminent sons of other States, whose splendid service and high character have Justified their presentation to the American people as candidates for the Presidency, and we assure Republicans everywhere that whoever may lead the Republican hosts, Ohio will contribute her stare to the swelling tide of victory in November.

stare to the swelling tide of victory in November.

The people of Ohio take satisfaction in the expressions, coming from every section of our common country, of popular approval of their distinguished fellow-citizen, William McKinley. The great advocate of protection, who has all his life stood for America, its factories, its farms, its firesides, finds his reward in the confidence and affection of the people, whose interests have been his constant care. The Republicans of Ohio pledge him anew the absolute, loyal and unswerving support of his State at the National Convention and instruct the delegates chosen to represent Ohio to redeem this pledge.

Col. W. C. Gooper of Mount Vernon, exmember of Congress, was then introduced and presented in an eloquent speech the names of Gov. Asa S. Bushnell, Senatorelect J. B. Foraker, Congressman C. H.
Grosvenor and Hon. Mark A. Hanna for

WOES OF AN AGED LOYER

Herman Zines of Kansas Comes to Grief in St. Louis.

HE LOVED AND LOST.

Is He Loved an Attractive Waiter Girl and He Lest His Boodle.

"Is this the place you get warrants?" he asked bashfully sliding into the sanctum on the third floor of the Four Courts, pre-sided over by Col. Dick Johnson.

The interrogator was a bent old individual with a grissled gray beard and a initiad muffler about his neck.

"I want to get a warrant," he went on, "to make a girl marry me. She promised to do so, and now she has run away with another man and all my money."

Then the old fellow proceeded to tell his story.

Then the old fellow proceeded to tell his story.

He gave his name as Herman Zines, said he is 56 years old and came here from Topeka, Kan., three months ago.

Zines is a widower with three grown sons. He had a farm three miles out from Topeka which he sold for $3,000 cash before he came to St. Louis. The way he figured, $3,000 would keep him after his frugal manner of living the balance of his says if invested in some modest business.

Besides being a farmer Zines is a shoemaker by trade.

Arriving in St. Louis, Zines went to board on Franklin avenue near Fourteenth street. Two blocks away was a lunchroom, at which Zines occasionally took his meals.

Vivacious, golden-haired little Dora Waters, "Dodie" she called herself, was the star waitress at the restaurant. She treated old Zines in a kindly manner and gradually he grew to manifest more than a fatherly interest in the girl.

old Zines in a kindly manner and gradually he grew to manifest more than a fatherly interest in the girl.

Day by day little "Dodie" worked her clever personality deeper into the old fellow's heart, until at last it thumped so violently in her presence that he came to the conclusion there was only one way to still it. So he tried.

Getting giddy, one day he asked "Dodie" to be his wife. She was awfully shy at first, but finally said it would be awfully nice to be an old man's darling.

The days that passed by after this declaration of love seemed to the venerable swain years. It was as if the old fire of youth had returned to him.

Plans for the future were arranged and money drawn out of bank to purchase furniture and a trousseau for the bride.

Then "Dodie" suggested it would be the proper thing for them to have a business all their own. A nice little restaurant would be the thing and she knew where one could be bought for $500.

The confiding lover produced the necessary $500, which he turned over to his prospective bride.

And he hasn't seen her since.

"Dodie" got the trousseau all right and the money for the furniture, and the restaurant, it is supposed, she still has in her possession.

The disappointed lover doesn't know where "Food'e" lived but thinks it is some.

Some people around the restaurant told Zines Miss Waters lived on North Twenty-first street with a bar-tender named "Shorty" Stevens, and that the couple de-parted suddenly for Chicago Sunday night. Mr. Zines and his troubles were referred to the police department for relief.

WARMED UP HER RIVAL

Mrs. Keestler Was Jealous of Her Divorced Husband.

Mrs. Minnie Koestler of 2821 McNair ave nue has been making the atmosphere so torrid in the vicinity of Mrs. Sophia Fielka's residence, 2526 South Broadway, that the latter secured a police court summons against her Wednesday morning.

Mrs. Koestler will have to answer to a charge of disturbing the peace.

Mrs. Koestler was divorced some Ame ago from her husband, and he was ordered by the court to pay her $29 a month alimony.

After the separation Mr. Koestler went to room at 2625 South Broadway, and Mrs. Koestler, although she no longer had any legal interest in him, was much displeased at reports she heard concerning Mrs. Fielka's attentions to the loved and lost.

Accordingly she buckled on her armor and salled forth to tell Mrs. Fielka what she thought of her, and did so in-language that is said to have been positively lurid.

This scene was enacted on several difference occasions, and Mrs. Fielka finally became tired of the business and resolved to prosecute her persecutor.

Feb. 19, 1895. Wallace has been twice sentenced to hang, and each time secured a stay on a piea of insanity. This plea is again set up by his attorneys. The State's Attorney of Tazewell County made vigorous protest against clemency, holding the murder a most cold-blooded one. Judge Green of Pekin, who tried the case, also enters protest against clemency. The matter was taken under advisement by the Governor.

BANK BLOWN TO PIECES.

Robbers Use Too Much Dynamite at Dayton, O.

DAYTON, O., March 11.-News has just reached here of an attempt to rob the First National Bank at Germantown, this county, at 3:30 this morning. The robbers were evidently green at the business and used so much giant powder that the bank was much giant powder that the bank was wrecked. The town was aroused and the robbers fled. The door of the vault, weighing 800 pounds, was thrown thirty feet. The vauk contained $70,000 in cash and many valuable bonds and other securities. The greatest mystery is how the robbers escaped being blown to pieces. The wreck of the banking room was complete.

Stole George's Lead Pipe.

George Prendergast has had a heavy loss. The loss weighed 800 pounds of the heaviest kind of metal lead. He was in the City Hall corridors Wednesday morning bewailing his misforture to several acquaintances.

The lead, he says, was in the shape of pipe and was stolen from his foundry, on Sidney street and Grand avenue, about 7 p. m. Wednesday. Some men with a wagon drawn by a black horse were seen in front of his place at that hour and he believes they did the stealing.

ARMORY BILL HELD UP.

One May Be Erected on the Old City

The armory bill is going to be held up.
It may be allowed to die in committee without seeing the light of the House. So de-ing.

"Since the bill was introduced," he said,
"all sorts of opposition to it is developing from every class of citizens. The chief objection urged to it is the location on the ground adjoining the new City Hall. It will detract from the beauty of that structure and perhaps interfere with light and ventilation on the side of the City Hall adjoining it. A movement is developing to build an armory later on where the old City Hall stands. This, I think, will be the final settlement of the matter."

PAT CLARKE TOO.

The Councilman Does Work for the City in Two Capacities.

It seems that Gottlieb Wittler is not the only member of the Municipal Assembly who has constructively violated Sec. 6, Art. of the charter, which declares that any member of the House of Delegates shall not be directly or indirectly interested in any contract with the city or any institu-tion or department thereof, and which fixes a forfeiture of office as a penalty for such yielestion.

a tortesture of other as a penalty for such violation.

Investigation of the records discloses that Patrick Henry Clarke, a member of the Council of the city of St. Louis, has been shoeing horses for the Health Department for the past year, at his blacksmith shop, 924 Chestnut. A lawyer, who was asked if this constituted a violation of Sec. 6 has declared that it does.

Councilman Clarke when asked about the matter said: "I am not doing contract work for the city. They send their horses to my shop to be shod and I have a right to shoe them."

On the Manly Man in the Full Vigor of His Magnetic Manhood.

No Use Now-a-Days for Puny, Debilitated Individuals-Everybody Can-Be Quickly, Easily, Permanently Made Happy.

Sparkling eyes, a quick beating heart, and the rosy blush of pleasure greet the strong, manly man when he meets his lady love. That is the kind of man whose very touch thrills because & is full of energy, vigorous nerve pow-er and vitality. That is the kind of man that every man should be, and his magnetic and his magnetic presence would make everybody happy around him. Why is, it not so? One of the principal reasons is the universally prevailing tobacco habit. Tobacco kills nerve. Stay with tobacco long enough, and every man will be a sallow, skinny, nervous wreck, inspiring disgust instead of love and affection. No man who uses tobacco can be as much of a man as without it. ut it.

STATE PRIZES COVETED

Hopkins Has Gained in the Race for Governor and Hence Cullom Is Still Running.

Special to The Post-Dispatch.
WASHINGTON, D. C., March 11.—In spite of his repeated denials, Senator Shelby M. Cullom of Illinois is regarded as positively out of the presidential race. He is still in the field ostensibly, but to-day it was ascertained beyond peradventure that he is merely acting as a stalking horse for John B. Tenner and the State machine.

marely acting as a stalking horse for John R. Tanner and the State machine.

When Cullom's recent letters were published Tanner and the machine were greatly disconcerted. Cullom's withdrawal at this time meant ruin to their plans to head off Congressman Hopkins, who was making heavy inroads in his efforts to secure the Gubernatorial nomination.

Tanner has been keeping the wires hot between Illinois and Washington. As a result of the entreaties of the State machine, Cullom has pulled back that announcement of his and has denied the authenticity of an interview in which he made public his retirement. But the interview was correct and it is youched for by many who have heretofore been friends of Senator Cullom. Congressman Connolly is authority for the statement that the delegates from Cullom's home and from Hitt's district will be for McKinley and that the Ohlo man will get all the delegates. Outside of the ten already selected from the city of Chicago, Maj. McKinley's managers must have Illinois to win, and he intends to capture the delegation if such a result be possible.

The Committee on Resolutions, in its report to the Convention, said:

"Your Committee on Resolutions are unanimous in the conclusion that this is not the time nor the occasion for formulating and resolving upon a platform of defined policies of national administration. That work, as we believe, can only be done by the convention, after a patient and patriotic interchange of views, by representatives of all the States, delegated to speak for them in that convention. We, therefore, submit to you declarations of existing facts and fundamental principles, upon which there is ne contention or diversity of opinion in the Republican ranks."

The declaration of principles which follow condemns the present Democratic Administration, declares in favor of a protective tariff and indorses McKinley for President.

Charles F. Spinner of 259 South Jefferson avenue deposed that when the Haffners were living at 2927 Park avenue last summer he used to call there frequently during the day to take orders for groceries. Mrs. Haffner generally spoke slightingly of her husband, and expressed a desire for the society of other men. In this connection Spinner gave an account of her advances to him.

"Mrs. Haffner never told me-directly that any men called on her, but she often gave me hints. She was very lonesome, and wished some one would ceme and stay with her. She asked me if I knew of any nice fellow, and I told her no. She then asked me how I would like the job."

Ballington Booth's Plan for the New Organization.

ITS WORK IN THE WEST.

Have Extended an Invitation to Secodors.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, March IL-Every one who enters the office of Commander Ballington Booth in the Bible House is watched, and, is believed, is reported to the English representatives of the Salvation Army.

There was even more callers at the new headquarters yesterday than on Monday. Commander and Mrs. Booth, with two secretaries, were kept busy all day answering urgent mail and receiving distinguished visitors. The movement has already grown to such proportions that before the week is out the sommander will be compelled to hite additional office room.

out the commander will be compelled to mre additional office room.

The halls used by the new movement will not be designated "barracks," as those of the Salvation army are, but will be called armories. The new organization will be distinctively military in character, and for this reason Commander Booth has not yet decided whether or not he will incorporate it. "I doubt if incorporation would be consistent with the military regulations," he said yesterday.

"I doubt if incorporation would be consistent with the military regulations," he said yesterday.

The plant is to pattern as nearly as possible after the regular army of the United States, both as regards the ranks of officers and the discipline. This will do away with many of the tibles in use in the Saivation Army, and will require the substitution of others. The sergeant-major will be replaced by the second i urtenant and a brigadier will rank higher tund a colonel.

A cablegram has been received by Commander Booth from his brother Bramwell inviting him to "visit the old country." Bailington declined, and cabled that all regotiations were closed.

With regard to the new organization, Bailington Booth said to-day that Chicago would be one of his first objective points whan through with New York, and that he had received several letters from preminent Salvationists of Chicago requesting that the new army would soon come West. When Mr. Booth would extend his new command he could not say, but thought possibly in a week or more. In regard to the manifests of his father, Gen. Booth, published yesterday, saying that he intended to conduct the army irrespective of persons, Gen, Ballington Booth said that he had never asked any favors from the head commander, but had been subject to the same rules as others. No name is as yet given to the new command.

FROM GEN. BOOTH.

His First Public Utterance Since the Dissensions Began.

NEW YORK, March 11 .- The Herald th forning says:

A cable dispatch from Gen. William Booth has been received at Salvation headquarters. It is the first public utterance of the paternal head of the army since the dissensions began. Two days ago the General arrived in London from the East and immediately in London from the East and immediately had a conference with his eldest son, Bramwell, after which the dispatch was written. It was read from the platform at the "holiness meeting" at headquarters last night. Commissioner Eva Booth began to read the document to the audience, from which all except salvationists had been excluded, but was so overcome by emotion that she called upon one of her officers to finish for her three telegraphic messages from myself urging him to meet me in London on my return from India, to which cables I have not even received a reply.

"But, though sorely wounded by this calsmity, I am more than ever resolved, in the strength of God, to direct the government of this army upon the principles of equal justice between man and man.

"I have never permitted the close relationships of family love which have subsisted between me and my children to secure for them any preference in the affairs in the Kingdom of God over their comrades who, though not blood relations, have ever been dear to me for their work's sake. I will not do so.

"Your welcome to my daughter, Commissioner Eva, in her temporary command, has much gratified me. Now every sensible man must recognize that if I had been willing to retain the loyalty of my son by sacrificing the principles of the army, I should at the same moment have lost, and deservedly so, the confidence and esteem of all honest hearted men, as well as the approval of my own consclenge.

"The suggestion that I had sought to Anglicise the army in the United States is at once a faisehood and a calumny. You, who have heard me plead the claims of the lost world, know it is. You have stood with me near the cross and you know that under the shadow of that tree I have pledged you to devote your lives to no less a purpose than that for which the bleeding victim died—the salvation of every nation.

"The Balvation Army is as much American as it is English. It is of the kindred of the poor and belongs to every land. Comraden, I rely upon you. I have done so since the first mutterings of this storm reached me in Ipdia. You have acted just as I should have expected you to act. By your roll and self-sacrifice and devotion you made the army what it is in America, and you have not been willing to stand by and see it destroyed.

BARTHOLDT ON

He Discusses Adjournment With

Mrs. Filley and will be in the city but a day or two.

"It is difficult to predict," he said, "just when Congress will be able to clean up its business and adjourn. Speaker Reed told me a few days ago that we must rush our bills through and be ready to get away from Washington by the first week in May. I laughed when he made this statement, and replied by saying that we would not be able to wind up our affairs before the 15th of June.

able to wind up our affairs before the 15th of June.

"No," he responded with emphasis, we must not be here after the first of May. We want to show the country that we are not inclined to fritter away our time in endless discussion of unimportant matters," But suppose the Senate will not consent to such an early adjournment, I surgested.

"Well," replied Mr. Reed, 'all we can do will be to wait on the upper house, but the blame for the delay must fall on them."

"It may be possible for us to adjourn by the first of June, but much will depend upon the Senators, who are slow and conservative. They are not inclined to make haste, and have an idea that deliberation gives them an air of superior wisdom. They sit and doze, and imagine that they are reflecting."

haste, and have an idea that deliberation gives them an air of superior wisdom. They sit and doze, and imagine that they are reflecting."

In discussing the outlook for a new bridge Dr. Bartholds went on: "I will never consent to the passage of the Murphy bill without the original House provisions. These call for a maximum rate of charge and for a bridge that will accommodate railroad traffic. Both these matters were provided for in the original bill, but at the suggestion of Senator Vest they were knocked out in the Senate.

"Vest tells me that his opposition is based on principle. He holds that Congress has no right whatever to say to the men who want to build the bridge that they can charge only a certain amount. In other words, he insists that we have no power under the constitution to regulate freights and fares over a bridge.

"He gives as his reason for this that it is is only by a mere technicality that Congress is called upon for a charter. It is held that a bridge might interfere with river traffic and this gives us a right to interfers. But for this question of the rights of navigation, Vest believes that anyone having the money could build a bridge over any stream at any time or place.

"Acting on this idea he will refuse to vote for the House bill, and he insists that he will hold out to the end. If he does this it is hard to say what the fate of the measure will be. I will never agree to the Senate bill, and, I think, I will be able to beat it in the House.

"If this knocks the whole thing out, as it will be Mkely to do, we will have a new plan to propose which. I think, will meet with very general approval.

"I will introduce a bill asking for a charter for a bridge to be constructed across the Mississippi at Carsondelet, and I am assured that the money for it will be forthcoming. Adolphus Busch, Wm. J. Lemp, Collector-Ziegenhein, the Chouteaus and a number of South Broadway business men are interested in the scheme and will, I believe, make up all the capital necessary for the carrying out of th that there is much chance at this stage of the game for the carrying out of Postmast or Cardisle's plans for a new postoffice building.

"In the present depleted condition of the Treasury," he explained, "it would be useless to suggest such a thing to Congress, Not a thousand dollars could be obtained for such a purpose. There are twenty or thing to the last congress on which the money wis public buildings for which the money with the more with the purpose. There is no money a salished diate prospect. will pick up and be all right in a little while, he says.

So he will; provided he sets like a man of sense and hastens the return of his old energy with that sound, builable athendant, Duffy's Pure Mait Whiskey. Experiments numbered have been made to find something to tone and brace hodies exhausted by influence and kindred diseases. Whatever the future will bring forth, the fact is solidly established that a good medicinal whiskey is the thing needed to quicken the languid circulation, thus preventing an excess of blood in some parts of the body and an under-supply of it in others.

Duffy's Pure Mait is not made for bar room purposes, but solely as a medicine, to be used in debilitated states of the body. Rigid analysis has shown it to be free from trace of harmful substance.

Its effects are immediate and so wholly bene-ficial that even the dreaded grip has lost most of its terrors where this peerless whickey is used.

School Union, who sustained a stroke of paralysis at Orange, N. J., as stated in the Post-Dispatch, died Tuesday evening. The body will be brought to St. Louis and interred in Bellefontaine Cemetery.

Dr. Paxson was born in Northern Alabama in 1837. He was educated at Jackson-ville. Ill., and at the age of B engaged in the Sunday-school work, assisting his father, who was Superintendent of the work for Missouri and Illinois. He afterward studied for the ministry and served ten years as a Methodist circuit rider. In 1866 he came to St. Louis and entered upon the work he was engaged in at his death.

Dr. Paxson was a brother of Judge A. A. Paxson and Rev. C. E. Paxson of this city. He was apparently in robust health at the time he was stricken, and his sudden death is a shock to his relatives and friends.

He leaves a widow and two sons, who were with him when he died.

Tuesday morning Judge Dillon denied application of the Imperial Building Co., which owns the Union Trust Building, for a temporary injunction to restrain the Chemical Building Co., which is now constructing a 16-story building at Eighth and Olive streets, from putting in bay windows jutting over the alleyway.

In his opinion Judge Dilion stated that the affidavits filed in support of the application did not make sufficiently clear the extent to which the windows would shut the light out of the Union Trust building. Republicans Fail to Make Henry Bus President.

WILL SWITCH TO ULRICH.

Dr. Wait Svengalied Hequemberry and Snatched Victory From the Opposition to Partisan Rule.

Although the Republicans failed to reorganize the School Board Tuesday night, they will probably succeed in doing so to-

After sixty-three ballots had been cast After sixty-three ballots had been call to Tuesday night's meeting without result and the Republicans had succeeded in securing a twenty-hour recess by the seeming defec-tion of Director Hequembourg from the op-position, there was every indication that the caucus Republicans would finally sucthe caucus Republicans would finally succeed in putting their plans through, partial-though bound to his support by a written, ironclad compact.

It was given out after the meeting by one who did as much as any other to break the deadlock on the motion, that the caucus Republicans would put Uirich through as President and Bus as vice President.

The recess was taken for the avowed purpose of bringing the party whip into play upon Bus to curb his ambition, it having been impossible to convince him during the balloting that he could not win. With the Vice Presidency he will receive the Chairmanship of the Building Committee, which he wants.

been impossible to convince him during the balloting that he could not win. With the Vice Presidency he will receive the Chairmanship of the Bullding Committee, which he wants.

The same authority stated that Hequembourg had been induced to vote for a recess on the understanding that Bust would be drawn down from the position of the titled. Before this is done but may be made to put Bus through, but there is little doubt that it will fail.

The nomination of Ulrich by the causeus faction will give them a working majority in the board. Drawing Bus down has become aimost an absolute necessity, because of the grave question as to his eligibility. The matter is already in the courts, in the shape of an attempt to oust him, because he holds also the position of the position of the provident of the board signed by him as President.

Before the meeting Tuesday night it became evident that a deadlock was to ensue. By 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon the demoralized caucus faction had been whipped into line again by Chairman Kaibfeld of the Republican City Central Committee, and the ten were oath bound to support Bus to the death. This came to the knowledge of the Democratis and hope of electing McClain hat night departed.

Will your cayalry act of the Mahall of work and the would not vote for a Republican city central committee, and the ten were oath bound to support Bus to the death. This came to the knowledge of the Democratis and hope of electing McClain hat night departed.

Will Bus and his followers were resting in blind confidence at 7:30 o'clock, the Democrats and Ulrich, Berg and Hequembourg were in caucus in the ante-room under Rus' very nose. McClain in the caucus relievated his avowal that he would not vote for a Republican and bound himself to the Council Tuesday night increasing the nominated by the Democrats and that the three Republicans who could not be induced to urge his resignation, thus insuring a dendick.

Director Dieckman had aiready promised to urge his resignation, thus insuring a dendicok.

The programme might have finally resulted in the election of McClain, but Coroner Wait induced Hequembourg to violate his written promise.

The Democratic caucus did not close until after 8 o'clock. The old board was called to order by President Brockman at 8:10 o'clock. It was 9 o'clock before routine business was concluded and the seating of new members was proceeded with the seating of new members.

For a time it looked as it William Landvogt was not to be seated. Had President Brockman been willing to assume the responsibility he would not have been seated, for there was palpable irregularity in his tax receipts.

At the last moment Tuesday Landvogt had recorded a deed to property in city block 3,714, which is four feet by twenty-five, the consideration being 35. The deed to the property exhibited by Landvogt Tuesday night bears date of March 4, 1896, but according to Mr. Brockman and others the original date, apparently March 4, 1896, had been erased.

cording to Mr. Brockman and others the original date, apparently March 4, 1896, had been erased.

If this was the case, Landvogt was not legally elected on March 3.

Landvogt was seated, however, and the old board adjourned sine die.

The first surprise to the Republican faction had been Dieckman's resignation, although the only vote against its acceptance was McClain's. The next surprise came in the selection of a temporary President. Before nominations were in order Ulrich made the blunder of naming Hequembourg. His selection as temporary President had been agreed upon by the Democrats. In the President's chair he would have been out of reach of Dr. Wait's influence.

When temporary nominations were regularly called for Bus nominated Grawe and tried to shut off other nominations. It didn't go, and the vote was ten for Hequembourg and ten for Grawe. Then Bus nominated McClain, who was chosen.

The regular nominations followed and the Republicans were treated to their second surprise when Berg nominated Ulrich, Collins nominated John Brady and Hequembourg nominated Berg. The nomination of Bus was made by Landvogt.

All through the balloting the vote stood thus:

thus:
For Bus—Godfrey, Grawe, Kissner, Koenig, Lacey, Landvogt, Rebenack, Spinning, Vortriede and Bus.
For Brady—Collins, Cudmore, McClain, Matlack, Penney and Sheahan.
For Ulrich—Berg and Hequembourg.
For Berg—Ulrich.
This alignment continued until the sixty-third ballot had been reached, with frequent incerruptions from Director Lacey, who, at intervals, moved to take a recess and then not to take a recess.

and then not to take a recess.

After the sixty-second ballot, it being then 11:50 o'clock, the first break came on a motion by Grawe to take a recess to 7:30 o'clock Wednesday evening. Coroner Wait was seated beside Hequembourg, and had been earnestly arguing with him. When Hequembourg's name was called he voted in favor of the recess, and a smile of triumph broke over Wait's face. Spinning and Vortriede, however, had broken and voted no, making the vote s for adjournment and it against. Before the sixty-third ballot could be proceeded with, Lacey renewed the motion for a recess, and Vortriede and Spinning falling into line, Hequembourg cast the deciding vote, closing the evening's session.

After the meeting conferences followed

At noon Wednesday the word went out among the Republican caucus faction that Graye and Hequembourg were to be com-promise candidates, Hequembourg to be sealed to Grawe by the promise of the Vice-Presidency. One of the managers of the Republican caucus faction also stated they were sounding on one Democratic

The hearing commenced yesterday in a crowded court room, and with a big array of counsel, the judge's rulings all through plainly indicated the sustaining of a demurrer and it will not be surprising if the indictments are dismissed. The case has attracted widespread attention.

The construction of the road has been finished from Sarah street as far west as Bartold t avenue, opposite Edgebrook in the county. The road is to be double track throughout. In the county sixty-pound T rails have been used and heavy girder rails in the city. The road has been heavily ballasted with fine stone from one send to the other and is free from heavy grades.

At Edgebrook the road will build an engineering curiosity in the shape of a steel viaduct 1,000 feet long, extending from Bartoldt avenue and the Missouri Panific Railway across the tracks of the latter road and the deep valley of the River des Peres to Tuxedo Hill opposite. The bridge will be of heavy steam construction, steel throughout, all parts riveted together; it will be sixty feet in height and will be supported by six heavy pillars. It will be constructed to withstand a strain of 380,000 pounds. A handsome six-foot railing will be placed on the sides and this when completed will be the longest electric road viaduct in the world.

SUPPLEMENTAL BUDGETS. What the City Will Get for Expense

Sixty-eight thousand dollars will be, in round numbers, about what the Ways and Means Committees of the Council and House will appropriate for the supplemental budget wherewith to run the city till April 13. Of this $10,000 will go to the streets. The temporary appropriation to be made in April to tide the city over until June, when the regular annual budget begins, will serve as a guide, Comptroller Sturgeon says, by which to gauge the expenditure for the balance of the year.

APPRIATED IN CHICAGO. Kerchants of That City Asked to Fix the Valuation of Laces.

CHICAGO, Ill., March Il.—The Times-Herald to-day says: Chicago merchants have been appealed to by the Treasury Department of the United States to fix the valuation of recent importations of Nottingham laces. This is an unusual thing, as such valuations have heretofore been made at New York, the port of entry. But the Treasury officials in New York, recognizing the extensive operations of Chicago importers and their knowledge and discrimination respecting foreign handl-work, have forwarded an antire consignment of costly lace work for appraisal by the agents in the employ of the large houses of this city. The consignment of Nottingham laces was received yeaterday by Special Agent Crain of the Treasury Department from the special agent at New York and is being examined by the sesient experts. The departure from the usual order of appraisal in New York is con-CHICAGO, IIL, March 11.-The Times
